

Summary of ADI Standards

ADI Standards form the basis for ADI Accreditation. The following document summarizes ADI's Standards.

In order for a program to be deemed compliant with ADI Standards, the program must successfully complete the ADI Accreditation Process and be approved as an Accredited Member of ADI. The following is a summary of the ADI Standards; additional specific criteria must be met as outlined in the Accreditation Manual to be deemed compliant with ADI Standards. A program may not report they meet ADI Standards based on the material in this document alone.

Should you wish to know more about these standards, please contact ADI at info@assistancedogsinternational.org. The Accreditation Manual and documents are only available to accredited members or candidate programs or by request on a case-by-case basis.
