

A word of the chair

It is getting closer and closer! The 2012 ADI Barcelona Conference starts next week. Under the theme "Making an Impact" we are heading for some important days. It kicks off Friday 27th at 3 pm with a joint session of ADI and the Canine Science Forum. From Saturday July 28th ADI will go solo until Sunday afternoon.

Together with this Newsletter you will receive a Conference Program. You will see there is a real interesting variety of lectures and workshops. The ADEu members will also have the opportunity to meet in a regional meeting. You will also receive an invitation to the ADEu Members meeting with all necessary documents.

This ADI conference will give us the unique opportunity to meet with Assistance Dogs programs from all over the world. It is always a real pleasure catching up with friends and colleagues and spending quality time together.

Barcelona is a beautiful city! And a city with a great climate...so to all of you who want to run away from the continuous rain in some parts of Europe and in need of some sunshine, I have but one advice. Come down South to Barcelona, you can still register now. I am really looking forward meeting you all next week.

Danny Vancoppennolle

